DESTINATION INFORMATION

Jakarta

Jakarta is Indonesia's capital and largest city, located on the northwest coast of Java. It's the political, economic, and cultural center of the country, and is also the diplomatic capital of ASEAN. Jakarta is a huge metropolis with a population of over 10 million people, and the greater Jakarta area has an estimated population of 23 million. The city is made up of many villages, known as kampung, that have been connected by main roads and superhighways.

Jakarta is a significant industrial hub, with a diverse economy that includes banking, trading, financial services, manufacturing, and services. Some of the top industrial sectors in Jakarta are automotive, electronics, mechanical engineering, chemicals, and biomedical sciences manufacturing. Jakarta's location as a port also makes it an important center for trade.

Jakarta has been known by several names throughout history, including Sunda Kalapa during the Kingdom of Sunda period and Jayakarta, Djajakarta, or Jacatra during the Banten Sultanate. Historical evidence from Jakarta dates back to the 4th century CE, when it was a Hindu settlement and port.

DID YOU KNOW?

Some information about India and Indonesia Import and Export.

Indonesian agricultural imports surpassed $24 billion in 2021, as wheat, soybeans, rice, beef, fresh fruit, and various feed ingredients were the main categories. Australia, the U.S., China, Brazil, and India are the top five suppliers of agricultural products to the market, representing about 57.8% of the total imports by value.

Bilateral trade:

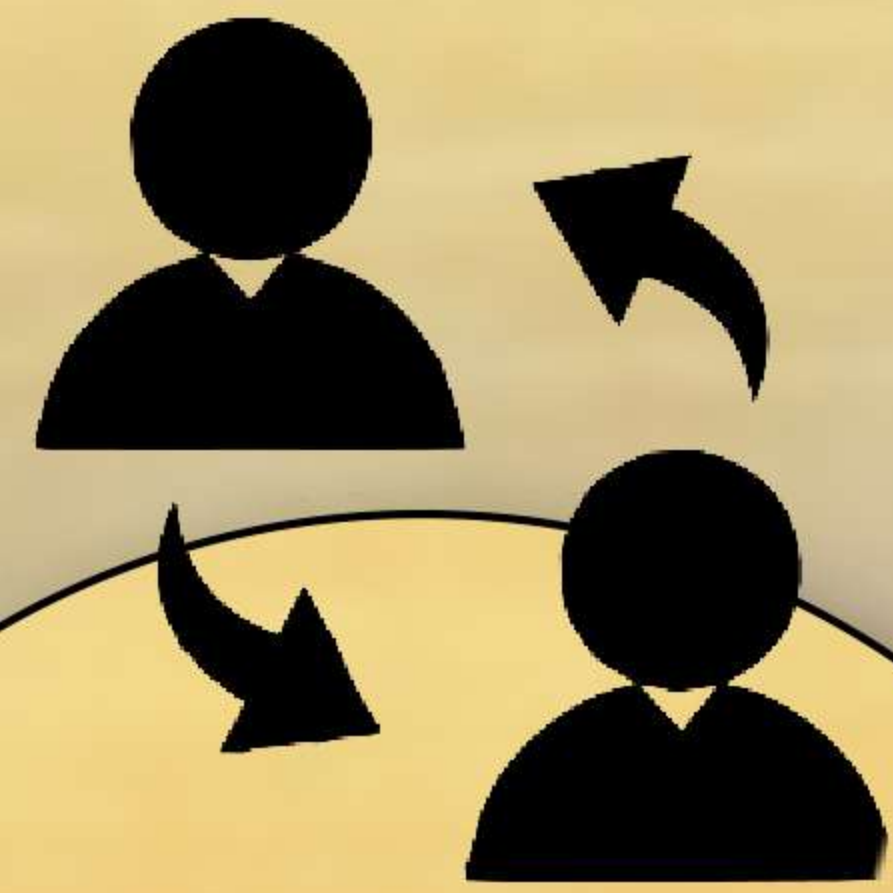

During 2022-23, India's Agri & Allied sector occupied about 12% of our overall exports of USD 450 billion and cross USD 52 billion mark.

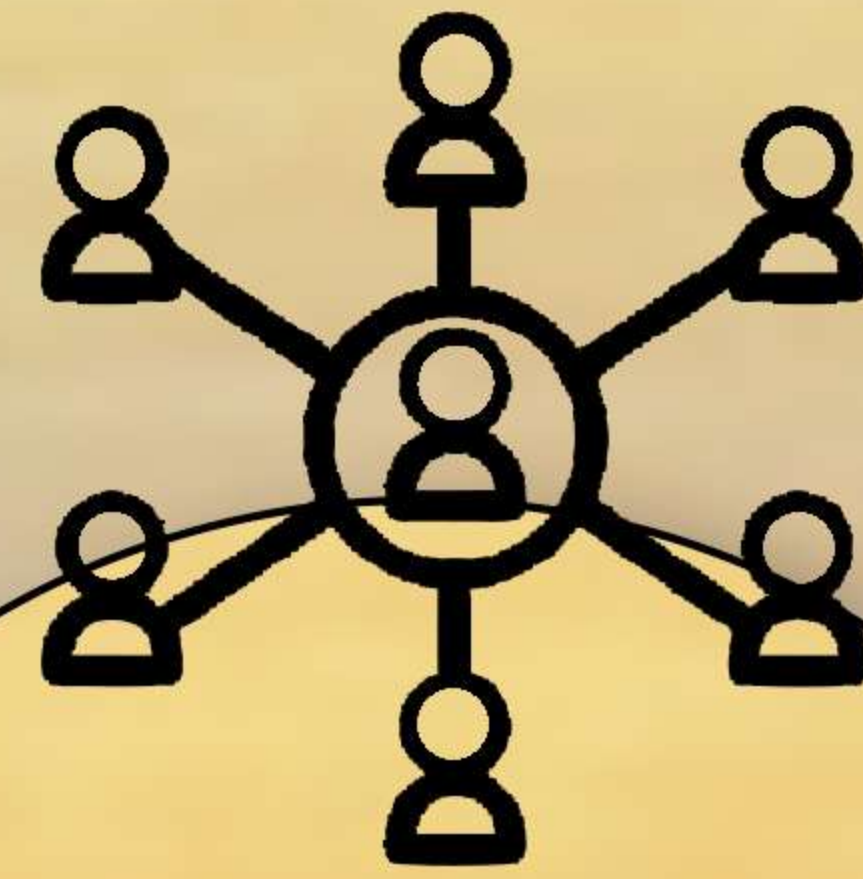

The export is driven by marine products, rice, sugar, spices, buffalo meat, oil meals, wheat, cereals, coffee, fresh fruits & vegetables, processed fruits & juices, groundnut, pulses, etc. Rice is the largest exported agricultural product from India and contributed to over 21% share in the total export of Agri & allied sector during the year 2022-23
